Marico eyes ₹20k cr by FY30, leans on new growth levers

FMCG major sharpens focus on premium products, packaged foods and a digital-first push

Marico Ltd, synonymous with brands such as Parachute and Saffola, aims to earn ₹15,000 crore revenue in FY27 and ₹20,000 crore by FY30 as it sharpens its focus on premium products, packaged foods and a digital-first push. To meet its targets, the company looks to tap the growing wellness and premium personal care segments, moving from its commodity-centric profile.

"We have multiple vectors of growth and we have factored that not all 100% will fire every year," managing director and chief executive officer Saugata Gupta told Mint in an interview.

Marico on Tuesday reported a 9.3% rise in FY26 consolidated net profit to ₹183 crore. Consolidated revenue from operations was up 20% at ₹13,611 crore for the year. Revenues will need to grow around 10% to achieve the company's FY27 aim.

"Adding another 15,000 crore over the next three years is a much more achievable task," Gupta said, adding that the company looks to reshape its portfolio to focus on new growth areas.

Marico's India volumes grew 8% to a seven-year-high in FY26 and 9% in January-March. Its rivals reported similarly robust volume growth in the March quarter—HUL at 6% and AWL Agri Business (earlier Adani Wilmar) at 11%.

Gupta attributed this higher consumption to a mix of macro and micro factors. "When food inflation is low, consumers tend to allocate more of their wallet to FMCG (fast moving consumer goods), often upgrading to aspirational brands," he said.

Gupta also noted that goods and services tax (GST) cuts for the sector were a key catalyst. It "accelerated the shift from unbranded to branded due to improved affordability. And lastly, the sector benefited from a softer growth in FY25," he said, pointing to the low base. The Parachute coconut oil manufacturer also benefited from the quarter's 35% decline in prices of key input

In line with the industry trend, Marico has also hiked prices amid the rise in input costs due to the West Asia war. "Across certain segments, we have implemented calibrated price increases of around 7%," Gupta said. Challenges are expected to persist in there is a resolution to the West Asia conflict, it won't beat the same level as last year, and we believe larger players like us are structurally better equipped to navigate such volatility," he said.

The foods portfolio—including brands such as Saffola, True Elements and Cosmix—is expected to be a key growth lever. The company's foods business in India has grown fourfold from FY20 to FY24. Marico now aims to expand the category 15 times by FY30 and is exploring adjacent categories to support this growth.

Gupta noted the wellness trend is catching up in the packaged food business. "Over the next couple of quarters, we will significantly expand into nutraceuticals such as vegan or magnesium or other similar offerings," he said.

He also pointed to the rising focus on fitness and weight management. "With the rising prevalence of GLP-1s for controlling type-2 diabetes and obesity, consumers are becoming more mindful, reducing unhealthy or indulgent snacking, and eating smart meals," said the CEO. "Around 80% of our food portfolio is already aligned with this shift and is GLP-1 friendly."

The international business is another growth driver for Marico. In FY26, it reported 20% growth in constant currency terms, the highest in 14 years. The company is looking to slowly reduce its dependence on Bangladesh for international operations and expand to other markets. In FY26, Bangladesh fetched 45% of Marico's international revenue.

"Vietnam is another interesting market, much like the Middle East, where we are seeing opportunities to replicate our digital playbook," Gupta said. Nearly 50% of consumption is already driven by e-commerce and social commerce in the Vietnam market.

in the market due to high crude oil prices. "We have thoughtfully built in higher crude price assumptions for the rest of the year," he said, expressing confidence that larger players such as Marico were better equipped to cope with such adversities than smaller firms. # Legacy fashion brands race to meet quick-delivery demands

Vaeshnavi Kasthuri

Fashion retailers are speeding up deliveries to keep pace with instant-gratification shopping driven by quick-fashion startups, with established players and new brands taking sharply different approaches.

For example, brands such as Biba and The House of Rare have adopted a more calibrated, infrastructure-led strategy rather than a rapid overhaul of existing store networks. "We've been doing this in a very soft way but not necessarily from the same stores because that affects the customer experience," said Siddharth Bindra, managing director of Biba.

Bindra said using retail stores as fulfillment hubs for rapid delivery creates operational constraints, particularly given store sizes and layouts. "We don't have very large stores; they are anywhere between 1,000 and 2,000 square feet. So that's not the right efficiency," he said.

Instead, the brand is evaluating a hub-based model in cities with higher store density, enabling faster deliveries without disrupting in-store operations.

"If we do it, it will be through proper hubs in cities where we have four to five stores, where we would start with quick commerce and accelerate it," he said. This could enable same-day or two-to-three-hour deliveries.

The House of Rare, which houses Rare Rabbit (men's urban fashion) and Rareism (women's fashion), is adopting a similar approach, evaluating city-level fulfillment hubs in markets with higher store concentrations to enable faster deliveries while keeping retail outlets focused on walk-in consumers.

The strategy reflects a broader attempt among legacy retailers to balance speed with experience, rather than treat stores as interchangeable logistics nodes.

"The eventual goal is the customer, but it creates a lot of difference in the customer experience," Bindra said, pointing to the trade-offs involved.

In contrast, some brands are moving more aggressively to integrate stores directly into fulfillment networks.

Libas, an initial public offering (IPO)-bound apparel company, is reworking its operating model to plug its physical retail network into a faster, hyperlocal delivery system.

Earlier, the 12-year-old company followed a more traditional structure. Online orders were largely fulfilled from central warehouses and delivered over a few days, while stores primarily served walk-in customers, with the two channels operating independently.

That is now changing. Libas is using its stores and nearby warehouses as local fulfillment points, allowing it to serve orders within a much smaller delivery radius.

"At Libas, the time frame will be approximately 60-90 minutes at the max," said Bhavay Pruthi, senior vice president, e-commerce and product management.

The urgency to adapt is being shaped by a surge in quick-fashion startups that are attracting investor attention despite heavy cash burn.

The segment has seen a flurry of funding in recent months, with Zilo raising $15.3 million in February led by Peak.VV, and Knot securing $5 million in a round led by 12 Flags in December.

It has also evolved rapidly. Quick-commerce platforms such as Zepto, Instamart and Blinkit initially offered a limited range of basic fashion items for last-minute purchases. This has since expanded into a more specialized category, with vertical players offering wider assortments across party, work and occasion wear with rapid delivery timelines.

Notes:

The above is an extract of the detailed format of quarterly financial results filed with the Stock Exchanges under Regulation 33 and 52 of the SEBI (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015 (as amended). The full format of the quarterly results is available on the website of the Stock Exchange (www.bseindia.com) and (www.nseindia.com), and on Company's website (www.bluestarindia.com). The same can be accessed by scanning the QR code provided.

2(a) The Government of India notified the provisions of the four new Labour Codes ("Labour Codes") on 21 November 2025, thereby consolidating twenty-nine existing labour laws into a comprehensive and unified framework. Among other changes, the Labour Codes provide a unified definition of "wages" to be applied across various employee benefit computations. In accordance with Ind AS 19 - Employee Benefits, the Group recognised a one-time expense of ₹56.35 crores towards an increase in the liability for gratuity and compensated absences as an exceptional item for the quarter and nine months ended December 31, 2025. Management reassessed the impact based on the revised compensation structure and the consequent changes in actuarial assumptions, and the said liability has now been determined at ₹37.55 crores. Accordingly, the excess provision of ₹18.80 crores has been reversed in the results for the quarter and year ended March 31, 2026, as a change in estimate. The Group continues to monitor the finalisation of the Central and State rules and clarifications issued by the Government under the new Labour Codes and will recognise the impact of any changes in estimates in the relevant period, as required. Exceptional items also include a one-time, non-recurring expense of ₹ 1.28 crores for the quarter and year ended March 31, 2026.

(b) Blue Star Engineering & Electronics Limited, wholly owned subsidiary of Blue Star Limited ("the Holding Company") had sold property, which resulted in book profit of ₹ 12.51 crores (₹10.37 Crores net of tax) and the same was reported as exceptional income in the financial results for the year ended March 31, 2025.

3 The Board of Directors have recommended the final dividend of ₹ 8.50 per equity share of ₹ 2 each for FY 25-26 (FY 24-25 final dividend of ₹ 9 per equity share).
